I wanted to let you know the Kresge Foundation funded Troy, Michigan planning retreat they have invited me to speak at is Friday, February 26.

I will probably go up that morning; a noon lunch and tour is scheduled with the mayor and city manager and then I speak at 6:45 that evening.

Dear Jim,

I am very glad I can count on you to give a keynote! Carmel is such a dramatic case study. I think what you are creating will be environmentally, fiscally -

It is certainly appropriate to give a brief historic context, but that is not the main story. The main story is the principles that provide the foundation for the city and transportation solutions that are arising out of those principles, and the social and economic life that this new urban fabric is generating.

You may have published or spoken about the guiding principles before, but I don't think I have seen them. As an example of what I am talking about, I attach "New Urban Neighborhood" and "The Freiburg Statement on New Urban Neighborhoods." The Statement was the conclusions based on presentations and neighborhoods in Freiburg. Both of these were published in our book Making Cities Livable. Do you have this book? It is very relevant for Carmel!

I think a statement about the principles guiding Carmel's development, illustrated by what you have actually achieved, would be very powerful!

Please do stay at the Hotel Columbus. Most of the other board members and I will be staying there. It is a beautiful hotel very close to the conference venue.

I attach the hotel reservation form. Please make your reservation directly with the hotel as soon as possible. I have sent this information to all the registrants of rooms available for us so it will fill up quickly.

With warm regards,
